POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Now we are anxiously awaiting to see what Kit Bond puts into action in the Auditors office since he claimed he was going to give him the money necessary for him to hire a competent people to audit the different books and if he will get them out any earlier and all the rest of the things he didn't know anything about that he talked about.

THAT FIRST ONE

It all began back in the early days of America, back more than a century and a half before there was even the dream of a United States — back when the first hope of a free people was born after centuries of the darkness of tyranny.

It began with a handful of men and women who laid their Merger fortunes and their lives on the line in a vital gamble against a black, forbidding wilderness, in a strange and hostile land — people with guts in their bodies, determination in their hearts and vision in their eyes, all beyond the capacity of effete 20th Century Americans to comprehend in full its stark reality.

Fortune could have been kinder to those Pilgrims, but God must have been intent on testing their character and faith, for they landed on one of the few spots of the eastern coast where the rocks are abundant and flinty, the land thin and poor, and the frigid winters were deadly for an unprepared band of strangers.

And indeed that first winter took its toll: the ranks of the newcomers were decimated by sickness and cold, hunger and want were never missing from their doorsteps.

Nevertheless, if there were ever a regret in their hearts, a thought of turning back in their minds, history has failed to record it. They had wanted something terribly; and with eyes open, paid a tragic price to get it — and they thought they had the better of the bargain.

And when they set up that first day of thanksgiving to their God, it was with fervent and unfeigned gratitude in their hearts. Tragically, the real cause for their thanks seems to have eluded modern Americans. It was not for the abundance of God or nature, not for earthly things; rather it was for nothing more than Spartan survival, and for a freedom they had never known before.

Strike away the glamor of legend and face the truth: those Pilgrims weren't kindly souls; they were terribly narrow-minded, as bigoted as the worst bigot of this modern world. They tolerated no deviation from their narrow credo, either of mundane or spiritual life, and were almost wickedly severe in punishing the non-believe; or the deviate. The tenor of their lives didn't tend to make them soft or pitying of heart.

But they were men and women of valor and determination, tested and proven in a way the 20th Century has never really taught most modern Americans to understand. And their gratitude was truly spiritual, far removed from material things.

There is no escaping the materialistic as Americans today again emulate that first day of Thanksgiving, more than three and a half centuries ago. And there shouldn't be, for the cornucopia of abundance has opened in our laps as it never has for any other people in any other time.

All the more reason we should remember the spiritual gratitude in those Pilgrim hearts that gave us our festal holiday. There is something infinitely good for the soul of the man or woman who learns the gratitude of devotion. All else that goes with the holiday is well and good - if we don't forget its basic import.

Let us pray to God this Thanksgiving for the courage and the tenacity of those first Pilgrim fathers, and thank Him for the magnificent tradition they have passed down through three and a half centuries into our keeping.

PRESIDENTS AND COMMON MEN

Statistics tell us how the life span of the average person has increased dramatically over the past 50 or 100 years. But, statistics tell nothing of the actual suffering from needless illness that was endured in an earlier era.

An interesting advertisement of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association in The Reader's Digest touches on this suffering by reviewing the medical histories of several former U.S. Presidents, beginning with George Washington. George Washington spent the first 30 years of his life plagued by diseases and illnesses; that modern drugs, properly administered, do much to cure and, in some cases, even prevent. He suffered from malaria, a case of smallpox, pleurisy, a long siege of influenza and an intestinal infection so severe that at 25 years of age his physician told him his life was in danger. Other Presidents, such as Andrew Jackson, President Harrison, who died one month after inauguration from pneumonia, James Polk and even President Franklin Roosevelt, who was afflicted with polio, suffered or died from illnesses that have since been brought under control by medical knowledge and the "wonder drugs."

We speak today of the shortcomings of medical care, or we hear charges that the drug industry is not doing its job properly. Yet, the fact remains that the much-touted common man of our time has available at his fingertips a level of care that was undreamed of by presidents and royalty no so many years ago. This care is the product, not of government programs and handouts and political bombast, but of the tireless, unrelenting quest of scientific minds- in a climate of freedom.

In recent years, much of this freedom has been submerged in a political atmosphere of oppression and regulation that may bode ill for the health of presidents and common men alike.

SECRET OF FOOD SUPPLIES

We hear a great deal about developed and underdeveloped nations. Just what is the distinction and what are the symptoms of an underdeveloped nation, and why are some nations more developed than others? These questions are of course not susceptible to pat answers because the answers must reach into factors of geography, climate, politics and human variables that are complex in the extreme. But, a few facts should go into the record.

Today, when we speak of an underdeveloped country, we are speaking of a country where the people do not have enough to eat; where technology lags so far behind needs that there is no way to sustain an expanding population. More and more, the symptom of an underdeveloped country is malnutrition and starvation. The United States is conceded to be one of the most developed countries on earth and its people are the best fed and the best clothed. Our technology is superior and is so far advanced that a substantial portion of our resources are today going to stave off famine in other countries.

Nowhere is the evidence of our development more apparent than in agriculture. Long ago, farmers, industry and the research laboratory teamed up to make our land the most productive on earth. New industries were founded on the requirements of the farmer and the soaring demand for food and fiber. For example, within a comparatively few years, the scientific use of chemical pesticides has completely changed the food output picture.

With the application of intelligent national and international policies, the family of pesticides, about which we have heard so many old wives tales, could play an immeasurable part in relieving the threat of famine and hunger over much of the world. Yes, the United States is a developed nation, but its development has been no accident. It is traceable to one factor more than any other -- the independence of its citizens -- in business, in industry, in the laboratory and on the farm.

The Oregon Voter magazine reported that: "A recent survey of 5,000 college students at 39 campuses turned up the information that 20 percent of those surveyed were thinking of leaving the U.S. The taxpayers could get a real bargain by offering to buy one-way tickets to Russia, North Korea, Cuba, or Red China for these anti-Americans. As for us, we wish them a hearty bon voyage!"

REVOLUTION

The crystal ball glows and dims but always relates of revolution. It's almost as though the Russian Czech Technique were in operation with pressure from above and below. Five U.S. Senators have already teamed ideologically with the Vietnams, a pressure from above preceded by Supreme Court decisions which gave Communists the freedom to use freedom to destroy freedom, and put the policy in chains. Meanwhile, the pressure from below is applied by the Communists such as SDS and the Black Panthers who blow up police stations and attack policemen. The revolution is in its hard initial stage wherein law and order (the pressers) call it "repression") has driven many revolutionaries underground. The attacks on police are most significant:

they are an attack on the guardians of civilized order, an attack on every man's safety, his family, his home. Perhaps society will yet luck out and go the way of peaceful change, but not if there are no peace officers. All of this is so old, so very old: the last time it was tried

- amid the pressures, the impossible demands, the coalitions and the riots - Czechoslovakia could stand it no more and it fell to communism in 1948.

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of people wonder why Bird Thompson and Izzie McCarthy didn't speak to each other.

After careful research, which included interviews with many of their closest friends, I have been able to reconstruct the events that led to their now 21-year-old feud.

Come with me to the year 1949. The place: the playground behind the Highland Grammar School in Holyoke, Mass.

It was time for the annual school marble championship. The rules: no "fudging." The stakes: Bird Thompson's collection of jumbo glasses against Izzie McCarthy's pure yellows.

The playing field had been carefully laid out before school that morning. A piece of gold chalk, borrowed from Miss Shea's fifth grade chalk box, outlined the five-foot circular playing area. A hole had been dug in the center, carved out of the tar with a stick.

Bird was then a fifth-grader. Izzie McCarthy was a fourthgrader.

At last the bell rang for recess and a crowd—boys only, of course—gathered around the marble hole.

The object was to knock as Bird Thompson and Izzie

McCarthy aren't speaking.

Ann Landers

Mother, 94, kept alive but mind dead

Dear Ann Landers: Our mother is 94 years old and has been in a private nursing home for seven years, mother does not know where she is nor has she recognized any member of the family for six years. My two brothers and I share the cost and it has kept us broke.

Three weeks ago the hospital called to say mother had fallen out of bed, broken her hip and was going into pneumonia. When we arrived at her bedside, we found her in an oxygen tent, tubes all over the place and receiving intravenous feedings and getting poked with needles every three hours.

Four days later the doctor triumphantly announced that mother had passed the crisis and he was putting her in "therapy."

Why can't people be permitted to die in dignity? Why must doctors keep a 94-year-old woman alive with mechanical devices when her mind has been gone for years and the maintenance of her ravished body is a financial and emotional burden to the family? What can be done about this incredible lunacy and ultimate indignity?—A Daughter

Dear Daughter: The doctor has an obligation to sustain life as long as possible. If, however, there is no hope and the family says, "Please leave her in God's hands, and forego extraordinary measures," the doctor will follow the family's wishes. My advice reflects the thinking of many distinguished physicians and theologians, including Dr. Irving Page, editor of Modern Medicine, and Pope Pius XII.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband lived at home and helped his parents financially until the day we married. They always resented me.

Whenever my mother-in-law visits (about twice a year) she strokes my husband's face and calls him "my little boy." He is over 30 years old and six feet tall. She makes him uncomfortable when she does this and it burns me up. I've told him how I feel but my husband refuses to say anything because he doesn't want to hurt her feelings. I wish his mother would keep her hands to herself. Do you agree that she is out of line? —J.B.

Dear J.B.: I cannot see that your mother-in-law is hurting you or your marriage by stroking your husband's face and calling him her little boy. No matter how old (or tall) children get, a mother always sees them as children. You don't say whether or not you have a son. My guess is that you do not.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for all the mothers who are concerned about buying baby food in jars which might have been opened by "food tasters."

Baby foods are packed in jars with safety device that automatically tell whether or not the seal has been broken. They are called "tamper-proof lids." The consumer can protect herself by selecting jars with lids having depressed centers. A raised lid indicates that the vacuum has been broken. When the consumer opens the jar she should listen for a popping sound. If he doesn't hear it the jar should be returned to the grocer. —M.L.D., Ex. V.P. National Canner's Assn.

Dear M.L.D.: In behalf of every mother who expressed concern, (and hundreds did) I thank you.

Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this self-addressed, stamped envelope comprehensive guide, write to and 35 cents incovin.

Gamble's Pay Off For Dexter Cats

DEXTER — A couple of Saturday afternoon gamble's paid big dividends for the Daily Standard's "Coach of the Year", Clyde Lloyd (Tiny) Holsten, the game tightened up and no more than three points separated the two throughout most of the second half. Virginia, and his Dexter high school Bearcat football team before after a 12 point spree by the St. Louis based unit in the third period.

The big Red and White clad Bearcat squad battled their way to the finals of the Missouri State High School Activities Association 3-A state football playoffs with a 29-26 decision over Lutheran South of St. Louis and will collide with Chillicothe in the title game Saturday at Missouri Valley College in Marshall, Mo.

Gambles, such as electing to kickoff instead of receiving to open the game and going for a first down on fourth and three yards to go, paid off for the state final bound DHS squad.

The first gamble paid off with 15 points as coach Vaughn's Bearcats took the wind, which was breezing out of the South East with about 20 MPH gusts, and recorded two touchdowns and three extra points in the first period with the help of the wind which held up numerous punts and pass attempts by Lutheran.

DHS's gamble came in the fourth period when Terry Gibson was called on to pick up three yards on a fourth down. The speedy, hard-driving back broke up the middle for a five-yard gain and a first down, which the Cats used to run the clock out.

"We weren't going to kick it (the ball) against the wind," coach Vaughn happily noted "and we figured Terry could get the yards for us."

That fourth period gamble thwarted a second Half Lutheran rally that totaled 20 points and moved the Cats record to 10-1 while dropping the Lancers to 5-5 on the season.

Dexter seemed headed for a rout after breezing to a 21-6 first half lead, but after the Lancers halftime pow-wow with coach

Lloyd (Tiny) Holsten, the game tightened up and no more than three points separated the two throughout most of the second half.

"I told them at the half, 'You've got your choice: you can go out there and get stomped or you can play a football game,'" the 300-pound plus Holsten noted before joining his players in the dressing room.

Those few words of inspiration fired up Lutheran South and they made a ball game of it, striking for 12 points in the third period and eight in the fourth while holding the host to eight in the final period.

Many of the Dexter fans took a breath of relief as the final gun sounded, as many perhaps had thoughts of what the Bearcats did to Malden to reach the playoffs when they rallied in the final period to lay claim to a share of the Southern Division championship and a berth in the state tourney. Malden led 6-0 at half and at the end of three quarters but a fourth period Bearcat rally put the Cats in with a 12-6 victory.

Coach Vaughn's first gamble paid off early in the first period as they used the brisk wind to push Lutheran South back to the 16 and held them on the first set of plays, forcing them to punt and set the Cats up on the 47.

DHS used six plays to drive across the Lancers goal line, with the first TD coming from Terry Gibson who was on the receiving end of a 24 yard pass from David Mathis. Richland Breland booted the extra point with 8:25 left in the first period for a 7-0 lead.

The teams exchanged punts until reserve quarterback Greg Matthews, who replaced Mathis with 1:34 left in the period after the junior signalman injured a thumb, connected on a 15 yard pass to Rick Barber for a 13-0 lead and ran for a two point conversion to put his team out front 15-0.

Lutheran took advantage of the wind to score their only first half TD, when they took advantage of a short punt and scored five plays later on an eight yard run by Tom Bigham. A two point conversion attempt was halted and the score stood 15-6 with 7:43 remaining in the half.

Dexter, using a combination of runs and passes, controlled the ball and drove 80 yards in 19 plays with Danny Smith galloping the final eight yards on an end around play with 48 seconds left in the first half. A two point conversion attempt failed and the score stood 21-6 at half.

After the halftime show of the Dexter Marching band, the teams came out and exchanged punts and fumbles until with 4 minutes and 59 seconds left, Chuck Harrelson caught a Dexter punt at his own five yard line and ran toward the left sideline. Then he handed the ball to Dan Schnitzmeier, who darted for the right side of the field behind some stout blocking and turned in a 95 yard touchdown that injected some enthusiasm into the Lancers as they moved to within 21-13 after a two-point conversion failed.

Everything seemed to go wrong for the Cats after that until a fourth period one yard plunge by Gibson nailed down the victory.

The Lancers got the ball back one minute and 26 seconds later when Gary Ruble blocked a Dexter punt and fell on it on the Bearcats 22 and picked up an additional 11 when a flag nailed a piling on penalty on a Dexter player.

On second down, Tom Bigham ran eight yards for his second TD of the game and after a two point conversion failed, the Lancers were only three points behind, 21-18, with 2:44 left in the third quarter.

With 10:36 left in the game and the momentum with the St. Louis squad, coach Vaughn's crew had driven to the Lutheran 16 where it was faced with a fourth-and-one situation. DHS quarterback Dave Mathis sneaked for the first down, but fumbled and the Lancers had the ball at its own 11 and stopped the Cats from padding its lead. But the Lutheran South offense fumbled three successive series, one two as the DHS squad pushed Gibson across with 3:23 left and he added the two point conversion for a 29-18 advantage.

The first time, the Bearcats took over on the Lancers' 14 but couldn't score and failed to go across the second time after taking over at the eight, but punched over the third time.

Lutheran battled back and covered 61 yards in six plays, with Ben Cox running the final eleven yards, and added its first conversion of the day when Don Pace passed to Rick Komorech for the final 29-26 score. Dexter controlled the ball the final 1-minute and 47 seconds to record the victory and set the stage for Saturday's encounter with Chillicothe, a 29-12 winner over Warrensburg.

Blanda Strikes Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Racing the clock has become a weekly ordeal for the Oakland Raiders, but their 43-year-old anchor man is having the time of his life.

George Blanda, oldest player in the National Football League, kicked a 16-yard field goal with seven seconds to play Sunday, giving the Raiders a 20-17 victory over San Diego that extended their unbeaten string to seven games.

In the last five weeks, Blanda has provided the heroics—three times with clutch field goals inside the final 10 seconds and twice with touchdown passes in relief of regular quarterback Daryle Lamonica, who went the distance against the Chargers, failed to throw a scoring pass for the first time in 26 games. But Blanda's second fourthquarter field goal gave the American Football Conference's Western Division leaders a one-game edge over second-place Kansas City, which battled St. Louis to a 6-6 standstill.

In other games, Miami stunned Baltimore 34-17, Minnesota downed Green Bay 34-13, Detroit posted San Francisco 28-7, Los Angeles topped Atlanta 17-7, Dallas thumped Washington 45-21, Cleveland smacked Houston 28-14, Cincinnati trounced Pittsburgh 34-7, Chicago whipped Buffalo 31-13, Denver ridded New Orleans 31-6 and the New York Jets beat Boston 17-3.

The New York Giants play at Philadelphia tonight.

At Oakland, Mike Mercer's 11-yard field goal with 1:46 remaining pulled San Diego into a 17-17 tie. But the Raiders drove from their own 26-yard line to the Chargers' eight, let the clock run from the 30-second mark down to seven seconds, called a time out and then summoned Blanda.

"There was a little extra pressure, since we took time out and I had a lot of time to think about kicking it," said the 21-year pro veteran.

But his toe was true, just as it had been three weeks ago to tie Kansas City on a 48-yarder with three seconds left—and two weeks ago to beat Cleveland on a 52-yard boot with three seconds left.

Stenerud and Bakken did all the scoring with field goals in the first regular-season meeting of Missouri's pro powerhouses. The tie left the Cardinals one game ahead of the second-place Giants in the National Football Conference East.

Bob Griese passed for two scores and ran 15 yards for another as Miami avenged an earlier 35-0 loss at Baltimore and climbed within 1 1/2 games of the first place Colts in the AFC's Eastern race.

The Vikings nailed their seventh straight victory, and atoned for their lone setback of the season, by outmuscling Green Bay on a one-yard scoring plunge by Clint Jones in the third quarter set up by Gary Cuozzo's 37-yard pass to Gene Washington.

Detroit snapped San Francisco's four-game winning string as Greg Landry fired three touchdown passes and the Lions picked off three John Brodie tosses. The Lions, however, remained three games behind Minnesota in the NFC West leaders.

Rookies Duane Thomas and Mark Washington provided the spark as Dallas rebounded from a 38-0 loss to St. Louis and crushed the Redskins. Thomas scored three touchdowns, one on a 35-yard run, and Washington bolted 100 yards on a kickoff play.

The Rams' defense struck for return for another.

Big Schedule Tuesday

The Daily's Standard's top rated Parma Pirates finds itself facing another member of the top 10 Tuesday night when it treks to Hayti to assist in opening the fifth ranked Indians season.

Parma, who has a 3-0 record, will be going against its fourth straight poll member, opening with top rated Richland, following with clashes against pre-season seventh ranked Bernie and then battling seventh rated Scott County Central Friday night.

Five other members of the poll are scheduled for action Tuesday evening.

Libourn, the second of two teams that were named to the poll without playing last week, will put its number four rating up when it hosts Risco.

Second ranked Matthews will find a real test when it goes against unranked, but undefeated North Pemiscot Tuesday at Ross gym.

Oran, rated ninth, assists in opening Ilmo - Scott City's season while Scott Central tries to get back on the winning side when it hosts Meadow heights.

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday Thursday, one three games are set Friday, highlighted by the clash of rivals Caruthersville and fifth ranked Hayti.

A 19-game schedule is set Tuesday.

Bowls Filling Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With Notre Dame, Ohio State, Tennessee and seven other teams accepting bowl bids over the weekend, the three big puzzles remaining are—if, when and who.

Despite losing 3-0 to SUNDAY to meet the Texas-Arkansas winner. The second-ranked Notre Dame on Saturday, seventh-ranked Louisiana State will go to the from the Orange Bowl, which apparently will invite the Texas-Arkansas loser if LSU doesn't come through.

The Associated Press learned that the Peach Bowl has invited Georgia to be the host team ... if the Bulldogs beat Georgia Tech. If they lose, it will be North Carolina, with possibly Colorado or Arizona State as the visiting team.

That would leave only the Liberty Bowl open, but with plenty of teams from which to choose.

Meanwhile, ninth-ranked Arizona State, 9-0 following a 33-21 victory over New Mexico for the Western Athletic Conference title, was wondering when a bid would be forthcoming. The team voted Sunday to accept a bid to any bowl and their Coach Frank Kush, with no game this Saturday, took off for a day or two of fishing.

The nation's top teams are reluctant to face Arizona State—the prevailing attitude is, "Who needs it? It's not like losing to Notre Dame"—and the Sun Devils aren't considered the best television attraction.

"But," said an Arizona State spokesman, "we need the team we've ever had here."

Stanford, ranked 11th, warmed up for the Rose Bowl by losing to California 22-14, the Indians' second straight defeat as Cal's Dave Penhall outshone Jim Plunkett.

Lawrence Leads TRJC Past Phillips, 88-81

POPLAR BLUFF —

Former Sikeston high school basketball standout Larry Lawrence has begun to make a name for himself in the junior college ranks after leading Three Rivers junior college to an 86-81 win over Phillips JC of Helena, Ark. Saturday night at Poplar Bluff High School gym.

The 6-foot-1 freshman, a last minute scholarship signee for the Raiders, poured in 28 points as the TRJC handed the tall Henena squad its second defeat in four games.

TRJC claimed a 40-37 half time lead against a starting squad that averaged near 6-foot-5

Tennessee, rated eighth, blasted Kentucky 45-0 and nailed down a Sugar Bowl berth against 10th-ranked Air Force, which ran into fired-up intrastate rival Colorado and absorbed a 49-19 pounding.

Third-ranked Nebraska, en route to the Orange Bowl, squeaked past Oklahoma 28-21 to earn a 10-0 mark and the Big Eight crown. The Sooners headed for the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl against idle Alabama.

Arkansas, No. 6, turned back Texas Tech 24-10, sending the 19th-ranked losers into the Sun Bowl against No. 17 Georgia Tech, which had the weekend off.

Two other idle teams—Nos. 12 Mississippi and 13 Auburn—were picked for the Gator Bowl, setting up an Archie Manning-Pat Sullivan quarterback duel.

Amazing William & Mary, with only a 5-6 overall record, captured the Southern Conference crown with a startling come-from-behind 34-3 triumph over Richmond and will oppose unbeaten Toledo in the Tangerine Bowl. The 15th-ranked Rockets downed Colorado State 24-14.

San Diego State, rated 14th, had its 31-game unbeaten streak snapped by Long Beach State Friday night 27-21. One of the two teams will represent the Pacific Coast Athletic Association in the Pasadena Bowl against Louisville.

Dartmouth, which isn't going anywhere except back to Hanover, N.H., won the Ivy League championship and finished 9-0 with a 28-0 rout of Penn. It was the fourth consecutive shutout and sixth of the season for the 16th-ranked Big Green.

Northwestern, No. 18, edged Michigan State 23-20 on Bill Plansek's third field goal, a 27-yarder with 48 seconds left. And No. 20 Penn State whopped Pitt 35-15, leading Coach Joe Paterno to suggest a Penn State-Dartmouth playoff for the mythical Eastern throne.

Ivy League rules make that impossible and Dartmouth probably accused Penn State's Joe Paterno, an Ivy League grad, of "trying to salvage the Lambert Trophy." The winner will be announced today and Dartmouth has been the unanimous leader for two weeks.

Mustangs Kick Tigers In Finals

WARDELL — High scoring North Pemiscot turned in its third 80 point plus game of the Sixth Annual invitational at Ross gym Saturday night and claimed the championship of its own invitational, 88-53 over Caruthersville.

Thus, the Mustangs of coach David McMahon, became the first team to win the title more than once. Delta C-7 defeated the host for the title last season. NPHS claimed its first championship in 1966.

Gideon took the consolation prize with a 66-56 victory over Naylor while Holcomb carted away the sportsmanship award and Caruthersville the pep club honor.

North Pemiscot, connecting on better than 50 per cent of its field goal tries, for the third straight game raced to a 21-9 first period lead and took a halftime edge of 46-25.

Ed Blackman, a 6-3 junior, teamed with senior Tony White to lead a balanced Mustang offense attack, netting 17 points each. Terry McCullough Larry Jennings and Bill Burlison rounded out the double figure scoring for the host, adding 15, 12 and 10 points respectively.

Blackman and White were the top two rebounders for coach McMahon, pulling 16 and 10 respectively.

The Mustangs clobbered the Tiger offense, with the exception of 5-foot-10 sophomore Joe Cagle, who drilled in 21 to claim high game honors.

North Pemiscot ran its record to 3-0 and will collide with undefeated Matthews Tuesday night at the Ross gym.

"We hope this is our year," commented coach McMahon, who's father (M. M. McMahon) is the dean of SEMO basketball coaches. "We played the tournament without two probable starters, one is ineligible and the other missed the games because of an injury."

Coach McMahon's team averaged 84 points a game during the three tournament games, using a balanced scoring attack that included five players averaging in double figures during the event.

Ricky Whitehead scored 22 points and led Gideon in the consolation title, racing to a 26-14 first quarter lead and then playing on equal terms with Naylor through the final three periods.

Ken Day ran his three game scoring total to 67 points, best in the tournament, as he netted 23 to claim high game honors in heading the Naylor offense.

SPECIAL SESSION CONSIDERS 5 STATE TAX ALTERNATIVES

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Five proposed tax alternatives to meet Missouri's emergency needs, particularly in welfare, are receiving attention this week during the fourth special session of the 75th General Assembly.

None of the House or Senate bills already submitted have overwhelming support, although some appear to have better chances for approval than others.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' recommended income tax hike, introduced in a bill by Rep. Richard J. Rabbit (D-St. Louis), has aroused the most controversy.

The measure is similar to one approved by the Legislature in 1969 and defeated decisively in the April 7 statewide referendum. It boosts their tax rate from the present 1.4 percent scale to a 2.6 per cent scale.

The governor evidently believes, or at least hopes, the schools crisis across the state and problems in other agencies, notably welfare and mental health, have changed public sentiment on the income tax.

He realizes many legislators would be reluctant to approve the tax so soon after the public rejected it, unless an opinion change is evident.

The most outspoken opponent of the income tax, Sen. Earl R. Blackwell (D-Hillsboro), has threatened to lead another referendum campaign if the measure passes in the special session.

Blackwell was the key figure in the earlier defeat of the tax. "I don't detect that the people have changed their minds one bit since last April," he said.

Several legislators have indicated they favor the income tax. Rep. Buddy Kay (D-St. Louis), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee which reviews all tax bills, says he prefers it over the sales tax.

Sen. Richard M. Webster (R-Carthage) was pleased that reform provisions of the tax were eliminated, although he said he would "withhold final judgement" until other revenue sources are ruled out by the Legislature.

Identical House and Senate bills to double taxes on beer, wine and liquor have the broadest support, according to most sources. In fact, no legislator is yet known to oppose the increases.

Two versions of corporate income tax boost from two to five percent may also have good chance for passage. It is questionable whether either can muster the two-thirds vote necessary to become effective Jan. 1, however.

A bill to apply the sales tax to all forms of medical advertising has been introduced by a group of St. Louis and Kansas City legislators critical of the press. The measure would also bring rentals and leases of firms, records and tapes under the sales tax.

All money generated by the tax would go to state schools. The bill is similar to measures introduced during regular sessions for several years without success. It appears to have no better chance of passage this time.

Rep. Stephen Burns (R-Des Peres) has introduced a bill to levy a 3 percent tax on sales of gas, electricity, water and certain energy fuels. The bill has received little attention and its fate is uncertain.

Just as uncertain is whether the special session will accomplish what the governor intended when he called it. Hearnes warned in his opening message Nov. 13 that putting emergency problems off until January's regular session would be a "great blow" to those on welfare and in the schools.

"The long dispute over Missouri's financial crisis could be settled once and for all if the state were allowed to run out of money, but it would be irresponsible to place the settling of a political dispute above the best interests of the state," the governor said.

The critical question is whether the Legislature will conclude, as Hearnes suggests, that the income tax is the "fairest" and best revenue producer available.

Many legislators will probably follow the lead of Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, who said, "I'm more interested in the public's reaction than anything else."

Bill Sponsors'

Absence Holds

Up Hearing

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — None of the sponsors showed up Thursday to the House Ways and Means Committee had to postpone until Monday night a hearing on a bill to levy a 3 percent tax on the sale of newspaper, advertising and mining equipment and on the lease of motion pictures or recordings.

The principal sponsor is Rep. J.D. (Jet) Banks, D-St. Louis.

The committee chairman, Rep. Buddy Ray, D-St. Louis, said Banks did not notify him tax the sale of electricity, water, fuel used to generate steam or the liquor and wine interests.

Over 30 opponents appeared and one, advertising man Larry Halenkamp of St. Louis, said "I voiced in the administration's that the bill is so bad that even revenue proposals a flat rate increase in income taxes and tax borders are made because liquor

8 School Aid Hampered By Fund Channel

BUT WHAT IF YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS TO COUNT?

Impossible. And if you look inside yourself, you'll find them.

You have the breath of God in your lungs. You have the God-given ability to hope. You have God's love. And you have yet another gift from Him.

The ability to help others. To open your heart and your hand and your mind to someone else.

If everyone exercises this wonderful gift, imagine how much more we will have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving, 1971.

the International Newspaper Advertising Executives.

JEFFERSON CITY — Distribution of state financial aid to school districts is hampered by channeling it through a special state fund, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said in a report released today. The report recommended that the fund, the State School Moneys Fund, be abolished by the legislature. It is one of the state government's largest special funds.

The report directed its recommendation to the regular legislative session, which convenes early next year, rather than to the current special session. State aid to school districts should be distributed directly from the General Revenue Fund, the report said.

Emergency legislation required last spring to permit the state to finance its commitment for aid to public schools would have been unnecessary had the School Moneys Fund been combined with the General Revenue Fund, the report said.

The emergency occurred because insufficient receipts had been accumulated in the School Moneys Fund for the March school distribution, the final one of the year permitted by law. The state had the money on hand in the General Revenue Fund with which to meet its commitment, but inflexibility caused by the separate funds prohibited its use for school aid, the Survey said.

The School Moneys Fund's source of receipts is money transferred to it from the General Revenue Fund plus receipts from the cigarette tax. The report said it would be less cumbersome to permit cigarette taxes to go to the General Revenue Fund and to distribute school aid directly from that fund.

The report said that the need for a separate School Moneys Fund was eliminated some years ago when the state adopted a policy of determining the amount of state school aid by a statutory formula, the Foundation School Program. Now the legislature allots the amount needed to fulfill the formula in whole or in part. Prior to adoption of that policy, the state had distributed a fractional part of general revenue, such as a third or three-eighths, to school districts, and the School Moneys Fund had served as a repository for accumulating that portion of general receipts.

The School Moneys Fund is one of 70 separate special funds used by the state government, the report said. If recommended the state government review them all with an eye toward eliminating those not needed. It said that holds potential for streamlining fiscal operations with financial benefit to the state government.

Six years ago a study showed the state government conducting its fiscal operations through 115 separate state funds, the report said. Legislation has been enacted abolishing 45 of the special funds described in that study, the report said, combining them with the General Revenue Fund. Along with simplifying finances, the report said, this made available $10 million on a one-time basis and $5 million on an annual basis for financing state services. These moneys had been immobilized in special funds.

As adjunct to eliminating the special funds, the report recalled, the state's taxpayers were relieved of paying an annual tax of 1 cent per $100 valuation on property. It was being levied on property for interest on an indebtedness that had been retired.

The Survey is a non-profit governmental research organization supported by Missouri citizens and businesses.

Four Injured

Four were injured in three automobile accidents Saturday afternoon, the highway patrol reported.

At 1:30 p.m. on highway 114, one mile west of Morehouse, a 1970 Chevrolet pickup truck traveling south, driven by Cleo Maurice Deeson, 22, East Prairie, did not yield the right-of-way at a through highway pulled in front of an eastbound 1968 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Edward Stinnett, 20, Morehouse, which struck the Deeson vehicle and then turned over, the patrol said.

Stinnett and a passenger in the Stinnett vehicle, Charles L. Bradshaw, 63, Morehouse, both suffered head cuts.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital for treatment.

Deeson was arrested on a charge of failure to yield the right of way.

At 4:10 p.m. on highway 61, one mile east of Gray Ridge, a 1957 Ford truck going west, driven by Lawton Dale James, 49, Essex, slowed and was struck in the rear by a westbound 1967 Buick driven by Barbara Cole, 16, Sikeston, the patrol said.

A passenger in the Buick, Sharon Helmes, 14, Sikeston, suffered a possible fractured chin, cuts, and bruises. She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston. On route Y five miles southwest of Bell City at 5:30 p.m., a 1964 Chevrolet, traveling west, driven by Orval Coleman, 52, Poplar Bluff, swerved to miss a pedestrian who was walking west on the north side of route Y, the

Wayne Brooks to Head Troop E

POPLAR BLUFF — Wayne C. Brooks, a Missouri highway patrol officer for the past 24 years and a native of Alton, has been named commander of Troop E with headquarters in Poplar Bluff. He is 49.

Brooks' promotion from lieutenant to captain will be effective Dec. 1, at which time he will succeed Capt. E. F. Dampf, whose retirement is effective the same day.

Promoted to the post of lieutenant at Troop E will be George Lewis Montgomery, Patrol safety officer for the Southeast Missouri troop.

Brooks, was appointed to the patrol on July 1, 1946, and assigned to Kennett. He was promoted to sergeant in December of 1961.

Brooks was assigned to the Jefferson City Troop F headquarters in November of 1967 and promoted to lieutenant. He then was assigned to Poplar Bluff a year ago. His badge number, previously "39," now will be "20."

Montgomery, who was born at Clubb in Wayne County on Aug. 11, 1911, was appointed to the Highway Patrol on Dec. 2, 1941. He previously had been a merchant and schoolteacher.

patrol said.

The patrol said Coleman was meeting an oncoming car and didn't see the pedestrian until the car had passed.

Injured was Leona Cureton, 50, Bell City, the pedestrian, who suffered a left leg injury. She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston,

After a brief assignment in the Kirkwood troop of the Patrol, Montgomery served three years in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was assigned to Poplar Bluff in 1945 as safety officer for Troop E and was promoted to sergeant in January of 1947.

Montgomery, will take badge number "39."

$2 Billion

Yule Savings

TICONDEROGA, N.Y. — Christmas Club, a corporation, has released figures for the nation's 1970 Christmas Club members totaling $2,396,736,000 in club savings during this year. More than 16,644,000 Americans opened clubs this year and saved an average of $144 in each club membership.

This represents another record year for Christmas Club savings and memberships, according to Christmas Club a Corporation, the organization that originated the savings plan back in 1910.

More than 10,000 banks and savings institutions will issue checks to members during this month when the Christmas buying season starts.

Christmas Club surveys show that although many people join just for Christmas cash, nearly $700,000,000 from 1970 clubs will go right back into savings at the institutions where the clubs were joined and the remainder spent on Christmas presents and such expenses as taxes, insurance, tuition and vacation.

The record highs in membership and dollars saved indicate a strong plan-ahead attitude on the part of many Americans to assure a Happy Holiday season.

If You Were The Judge Kiss May Be Assault But Not Negligence

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alice and Bill were platonic friends. But, to Bill, being platonic friends with a girl as attractive as Alice was like being invited down to the wine cellar for a glass of ginger ale.

Consequently, when she came to visit his apartment, one morning, and was sitting on the floor sorting out phonograph records, he suddenly grabbed her around the waist and attempted to kiss her.

Alice, in turn, attempted to free herself from his vise-like grip. Unfortunately, in the struggle, Alice struck her head on a coffee table and charging negligence she sued him for the injury that ensued.

"It was pure negligence the way he mishandled me," complained Alice in court. "He grabbed me like he was a bull in a China Shop. Women are fragile."

Nonsense," was Bill's answer. "I intended to kiss her and I did kiss her. That's not being negligent, that's being manly. And, it's manliness that women like."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit fragile Alice to collect for her injuries due to Bill's alleged negligence?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Bill's conduct constituted an assault and battery and not negligence; that assault and battery is an intentional act while negligence connotes an unintentional act. And, in this case, concluded the judge, Bill's efforts to kiss Alice was purely intentional.

Based upon a 1969 Florida District Court of Appeals Decision,

Brod Crawford
Bright Spot in
Dull TV Season

Jury Rules Homicide, Suicide

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the better things of the otherwise lackluster new television season is the sight of the old pro Broderick Crawford acting as den father to a flock of young doctors on "The Interns."

The face resembles that of a boxer who stayed in the ring for one bout too many. But there's nothing wrong with Crawford's rapid-fire delivery—or his death.

The deaths occurred Oct. 29. Two witnesses told the coroner's panel, headed by Sheriff Ivan McLain, they saw Kremer near the apartment building where Marilyn Holtzclaw, 25, was killed. She had been shot four times by a shotgun.

Kremer, 38, died a short time later when his auto collided with a bridge pillar of Interstate 55 on the north side of town. The shotgun was not found but two persons told authorities they saw an auto similar to Kremer's near Haw! They should know that I've learned all the tricks they'll ever learn, and a few extras as well.

"Once I tried that lighting bit with Charlie Ruggles. 'Young man, just where are you leading me?' he said. Believe me, I never tried that again."

A pathologist's report was foundation on which the CBS indicated no unusual findings in Friday night series is connection with an autopsy constructed—"I'm the father performed on Kremer," he comments. The Miss Holtzclaw was from show is being filmed in familiar rural Ware, Ill., just across the surroundings for him—Mississippi River from Cape Girardeau. She was employed at made "All the King's Men" (Oscar, 1949), "Born Yesterday" and several less memorable films.

Crawford will be 60 next year. After a stage career—"Of Mice and Men," 65 feature films and a long-running television series, "Highway Patrol," he remains as electric as ever. The schedule for "The Interns" is rigorous, but no more so than "Highway Patrol," which he turned out in two days per episode.

The young performers on "The Interns" keep him on his toes, and vice versa. They are Stephen Brooks, Christopher Stone, Hal Frederick, Sandra Smith, Mike Farrell and Elaine Giftos.

OPEN HOUSE will be observed Tuesday at the new fire station in Perkins.

"Well, well, whaddya know! . . . Lady Nicotine's ex-converts!"

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Nov. 23, the 327th day of 1970. There are 38 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1943, the Pacific war battle of Tarawa ended in an American victory as U.S. Marines seized the island from the Japanese.

On this date: In 1765, the British Stamp Act was first repudiated by the court of Frederick County, Md.

In 1774, the Minutemen were organized by an act of the Colonial Provincial Congress.

In 1863, the Civil War battle of Lookout Mountain began in Tennessee.

In 1921, President Warren G. Harding signed a bill outlawing beer.

In 1963, the body of President John F. Kennedy, assassinated in Dallas, Tex., lay in state at the White House.

Ten years ago — the second U.S. weather-eye satellite, Tiros II, was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Five years ago — At least 12 persons were dead in flash floods in southern California.

One year ago — The National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence warned that American cities were on their way to becoming "fortresses" and "places of terror."

Because she said spaghetti is her favorite dish, the National Macaroni Institute named Mrs. Richard Nixon "Macaroni Woman of the Year."

Possibility U.S. Planes Struck Hanoi-Haiphong Area Not Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The injured in a U.S. air attack on unarmed U.S. planes struck the Hanoi-Haiphong area during weekend raids against North Vietnamese missile and antiaircraft sites.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said the attacks by 250 fighter bombers and support aircraft were limited to targets below the 19th parallel, but refused to comment when asked if other planes fired on targets north of the parallel as charged by the Hanoi government.

Friedheim had no comment when asked by newsmen to state flatly whether any planes flew above the 19th parallel, which is about 175 miles north of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam.

Friedheim said the raids were carried out over seven-hour period and announced that no U.S. planes were lost. Hanoi has claimed that five planes and a helicopter were shot down.

Hanoi also charged that civilians were killed in air strikes in the Northern provinces above the 19th parallel and that a number of U.S. servicemen were injured in a U.S. air attack on unarmed U.S. planes over North Vietnam and to protect the bombing as "very ominous."

The main targets, Friedheim said included approach routes to the Mu Gia and Ban Karai passes through Laos and other approach routes leading south to the Vietnamese delegation to the Arkansas Democrat said.

In a statement, he repeated congressional criticism in Washington where antiwar forces

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's announcement Saturday seek to reopen debate on President Nixon's South Asia missions, "were in retaliation for program.

Chairman J. William Fulbright of Senate Foreign Relations Committee described the bombing as "very ominous." The raids imply the administration still seeks military victory rather than a negotiated settlement, the Arkansas Democrat said.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, ranking republican on the committee, told a home state newspaper he was surprised Nixon did not consult key congressmen before the weekend strikes. He hinted at Capitol Hill retaliation.

The bombing came as many Democrats were still progress of the Paris peace talks.

Friedheim said the raids were approved by Laird himself. Asked whether President Nixon took a hand and also whether Laird has a free rein to act in Vietnam at any time, Friedheim declined to answer. He said that he would not discuss Laird's relationship with the President.

The Pentagon said after Friedheim's news conference that Laird would hold his own news conference at 3:30 p.m. EST to discuss U.S. activities in Vietnam during the weekend.

Although the Pentagon had said main raid targets were missile and antiaircraft gun positions, it has been made clear that pilots also struck at supply dumps which had been built up over recent weeks.

Pilots reported about 100 secondary fires and explosions in the target areas, indicating that ammunition or fuel dumps had been hit. The Pentagon also said more than 100 trucks near the antiaircraft sites had been hit and several missiles and associate equipment were probably destroyed on the ground.

Friedheim also said several surface-to-air missiles were fired against the U.S. planes but none scored hits.

Friedheim also repeated Laird's weekend warning that the United States would resume protective reaction strikes if North Vietnam continued to fire on reconnaissance planes or piloted flying against supply targets in Laos.

"We do not intend to tolerate violations of these or any other understandings," Friedheim declared.

Taking part in the attacks were Air Force and Marine fighter bombers from bases in Thailand and South Vietnam along with Navy planes from carriers Hancock, Ranger and Oriskany in the Tonkin Gulf.

About 50 support aircraft—flak-suppression planes, electronic support aircraft, reconnaissance and search and rescue aircraft—accompanied the 200 fighter bombers.

Friedheim said that several key members of Congress were notified of the raids while they were in progress, but did not identify them. Some congressmen have complained that they were not advised of the strikes beforehand.

Mansfield said the raider wanted "a reinvocation, even if it is only the start ...

On another point brought up by North Vietnamese claims and backed by a French news agency reporter in Hanoi that the American planes hit targets close to Hanoi, Scott again stated what Laird had said earlier.

"I am satisfied that we did not bomb that far north. I have asked the question," he said, "I have been advised that we did not."

The raids, said to have been much smaller than a similar punitive strike last spring, were not really capable for doing serious damage to what they said are very extensive supply and ammunition storage areas, the Montana Democrat declared.

Both senators appeared on Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" interview broadcast.

In touching on the Cambodia aid proposal, Mansfield declined to characterize the growing Democratic criticism of the plan along with the bombing as an effort to bring about a confrontation.

But he said, "I am not at all happy about getting involved in a new economic aid program with Indonesia, because I think it is only the start ...

"It will mean military and economic missions and it seems to me possibly to be a repetition of the old pattern in Vietnam."

In another development Sunday, Pentagon sources said the major reason behind the weekend raids was "to remind the other guy what the rules of the game are, whether he understands them or not. Whether he understands them is not particularly important. The signal is the thing," an indication the reconnaissance flights would go on.

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, Mansfield's Republican counterpart who earlier asserted Democratic attacks on Nixon's Cambodia aid plan were motivated by 1972 presidential politics, made a strong defense of the bombings.

The reference was to an understanding between the United States and Hanoi, said to have been made when former President Lyndon Johnson stopped the bombing of the North just a little more than two years ago.

The vetoed bill would limit campaign broadcast spending to seven cents for each vote cast for the office involved in the prior election, or $20,000, whichever was higher.

It would cover candidates for president, vice president, Senate, House, governor and lieutenant governor.

Those provisions, if they became effective for the 1972 presidential campaign, would limit each party to about $5.1 million worth of radio and television campaign time.

The vetoed bill also would waive equal time requirements, permitting televised debates between the two major party presidential candidates.

In the House, where a two-thirds vote also would be needed to override, Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan has announced he will support the bill.

FIREMEN WERE CALLED to the Valley Bros. Farm on Salcedo Road at 7:05 a.m. today when electrical wiring in the barn ignited. Hay, being stored in the barn, caught fire and destroyed the building and its contents. Livestock in the barn were removed before the fire burned out of control.

Israel Says Air Space Violated

TEL AVIV (AP) — Egyptian warplanes flew along almost the entire length of the Suez Canal today, passing over Israeli army emplacements in violation of the cease-fire, the Israeli military charged.

Egyptian planes also flew over Israeli positions on Sunday, a spokesman claimed.

Two complaints were lodged with U.N. truce supervision authorities—one for each overflight, he said.

In both cases, two pairs of Soviet-made Sukhoi SU7s sped along the canal, apparently on reconnaissance missions.

No bombs were dropped, there was no strafing, and the Israelis did not fire on the planes, he added.

It was the first time since the U.S.-initiated canal cease-fire was extended Nov. 6 that Israel has complained of alleged breaches by Egypt.

(Egypt's deputy minister of information, Munir Hafez, "denied in Cairo that any Egyptian planes had flown across the cease-fire line Sunday and accused the Israelis of trying to "seize world public opinion.")

During the first 90-day ceasefire period Israel complained frequently that Egypt was moving missiles closer to the canal. The Israelis several times published aerial photographs of missiles allegedly brought into the canal zone, and the United States once charged Israel with violating the cease-fire by reconnaissance flights over Egyptian territory. But the Israelis never admitted they had flown over Egyptian territory to obtain the photos.

Egypt over the weekend demanded again that the United States halt its reconnaissance flights over the canal. The demand, published in the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram, was accompanied by a warning that Egypt might shoot at the U.S. U2 planes if they continue such "spy flights."

The Pennsylvania senator there was no such understanding, Mansfield replied:

"That is correct. I am assuming that the administration at that time assumed there was an understanding. But there was nothing ... which would substantiate a definitive understanding."

Mansfield said he saw merit in a broader measure but called the vetoed bill a step in the right direction.

In vetoing the bill Nixon said reform should be across the board, not be limited to a single avenue of political advertising.

Nixon argued the broadcast limit might lead to increased spending as candidates shifted their advertising to other, less effective and therefore more expensive avenues to the voter.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Now we are anxiously awaiting to see what Kit Bond puts into action in the Auditors office since he claimed he was going to give him the money necessary for him to hire a competent person to audit the different books and if he will get them out any earlier and all the rest of the things he didn't know anything about that he talked about.

THAT FIRST ONE

It all began back in the early days of America, back more than a century and a half before there was even the dream of a United States — back when the first hope of a free people was born after centuries of the darkness of tyranny.

It began with a handful of men and women who laid their Merger fortunes and their lives on the line in a vital gamble against a black, forbidding wilderness, in a strange and hostile land — people with guts in their bodies, determination in their hearts and vision in their eyes, all beyond the capacity of effete 20th Century Americans to comprehend in full its stark reality.

Fortune could have been kinder to those Pilgrims, but God must have been intent on testing their character and faith, for they landed on one of the few spots of the eastern coast where the rocks are abundant and flinty, the land thin and poor, and the frigid winters were deadly for an unprepared band of strangers.

And indeed that first winter took its toll: the ranks of the newcomers were decimated by sickness and cold, hunger and want were never missing from their doorsteps.

Nevertheless, if there were ever a regret in their hearts, a thought of turning back in their minds, history has failed to record it. They had wanted something terribly; and with eyes open, paid a tragic price to get it — and they thought they had the better of the bargain.

And when they set up that first day of thanksgiving to their God, it was with fervent and unfeigned gratitude in their hearts. Tragically, the real cause for their thanks seems to have eluded modern Americans. It was not for the abundance of God or nature, not for earthly things; rather it was for nothing more than Spartan survival, and for a freedom they had never known before.

Strike away the glamor of legend and face the truth: those Pilgrims weren't kindly souls; they were terribly narrow-minded, as bigoted as the worst bigot of this modern world. They tolerated no deviation from their narrow credo, either of mundane or spiritual life, and were almost wickedly severe in punishing the non-believers; or the deviate. The tenor of their lives didn't tend to make them soft or pitying of heart.

But they were men and women of valor and determination, tested and proven in a way the 20th Century has never really taught most modern Americans to understand. And their gratitude was truly spiritual, far removed from material things.

There is no escaping the materialistic as Americans today again emulate that first day of Thanksgiving, more than three and a half centuries ago. And there shouldn't be, for the cornucopia of abundance has opened in our laps as it never has for any other people in any other time.

All the more reason we should remember the spiritual gratitude in those Pilgrim hearts that gave us our festal holiday. There is something infinitely good for the soul of the man or woman who learns the gratitude of devotion. All else that goes with the holiday is well and good — if we don't forget its basic import.

Let us pray to God this Thanksgiving for the courage and the tenacity of those first Pilgrim fathers, and thank Him for the magnificent tradition they have passed down through three and a half centuries into our keeping.

PRESIDENTS AND COMMON MEN

Statistics tell us how the life span of the average person has increased dramatically over the past 50 or 100 years. But, statistics tell nothing of the actual suffering from needless illness that was endured in an earlier era.

An interesting advertisement of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association in The Reader's Digest touches on this suffering by reviewing the medical histories of several former U.S. Presidents, beginning with George Washington. George Washington spent the first 30 years of his life plagued by diseases and illnesses; that modern drugs, properly administered, do much to cure and, in some cases, even prevent. He suffered from malaria, a case of smallpox, pleurisy, a long siege of influenza and an intestinal infection so severe that at 25 years of age his physician told him his life was in danger. Other Presidents, such as Andrew Jackson, President Harrison, who died one month after inauguration from pneumonia, James Polk and even President Franklin Roosevelt, who was afflicted with polio, suffered or died from illnesses that have since been brought under control by medical knowledge and the "wonder drugs."

We speak today of the shortcomings of medical care, or we hear charges that the drug industry is not doing its job properly. Yet, the fact remains that the much-touted common man of our time has available at his fingertips a level of care that was undreamed of by presidents and royalty no so many years ago. This care is the product, not of government programs and handouts and political bombast, but of the tireless, unrelenting quest of scientific minds— in a climate of freedom.

In recent years, much of this freedom has been submerged in a political atmosphere of oppression and regulation that may bode ill for the health of presidents and common men alike.

Rubbing elbows with a man will reveal things about him you never suspected. The same is true of rubbing fenders.

TOWNSEND, MONT., STAR: "The average 18-year-old cannot remember when there was no television. To him, nothing is true — nothing has happened — unless he sees it on TV... Today's youth has parents and grandparents who base knowledge and experience on an entirely different set of values. They grew up reading carefully ordered words. They were mature before being bombarded by ... on-the-scene news, glamorous entertainment, violence in the raw, provocative commercials, and fantasy formats. The older generation brings to its evaluation a cause and effect realism. Youth's desires are not bounded by what can or cannot be. They have no built-in timer that says 'work and save and wait.' The poor see into the homes of the rich. The uneducated opt for the status of those who have arrived. Television has brought actuality into the home. What young people see is fact for them. It is simply a matter of the age of the viewer as to what is seen and what message received."

We hear a great deal about developed and underdeveloped nations. Just what is the distinction and what are the symptoms of an underdeveloped nation, and why are some nations more developed than others? These questions are of course not susceptible to pat answers because the answers must reach into factors of geography, climate, politics and human variables that are complex in the extreme. But, a few facts should go into the record.

Today, when we speak of an underdeveloped country, we are speaking of a country where the people do not have enough to eat; where technology lags so far behind needs that there is no way to sustain an expanding population. More and more, the symptom of an underdeveloped country is malnutrition and starvation. The United States is conceded to be one of the most developed countries on earth and its people are the best fed and the best clothed. Our technology is superior and is so far advanced that a substantial portion of our resources are today going to stave off famine in other countries.

Nowhere is the evidence of our development more apparent than in agriculture. Long ago, farmers, industry and the research laboratory teamed up to make our land the most productive on earth. New industries were founded on the requirements of the farmer and the soaring demand for food and fiber. For example, within a comparatively few years, the scientific use of chemical pesticides has completely changed the food output picture.

With the application of intelligent national and international policies, the family of pesticides, about which we have heard so many old wives tales, could play an immeasurable part in relieving the threat of famine and hunger over much of the world. Yes, the United States is a developed nation, but its development has been no accident. It is traceable to one factor more than any other — the independence of its citizens -- in business, in industry, in the laboratory and on the farm.

THE OREGON VOTER magazine reported that: "A recent survey of 5,000 college students at 39 campuses turned up the information that 20 percent of those surveyed were thinking of leaving the U.S. The taxpayers could get a real bargain by offering to buy one-way tickets to Russia, North Korea, Cuba, or Red China for these anti-Americans. As for us, we wish them a hearty bon voyage!"

REVOLUTION

The crystal ball glows and dims but always relates of revolution. It's almost as though the Russian Czech Technique were in operation with pressure from above and below. Five U.S. Senators have already teamed ideologically with the Vietnams, a pressure from above preceded by Supreme Court decisions which gave Communists the freedom to use freedom to destroy freedom, and put the policy in chains. Meanwhile, the pressure from below is applied by the Communists such as SDS and the Black Panthers who blow up police stations and attack policemen. The revolution is in its hard initial stage wherein law and order (the pressures call it "repression") has driven many revolutionaries underground. The attacks on police are most significant: they are an attack on the guardians of civilized order, an attack on every man's safety, his family, his home.

Perhaps society will yet luck out and go the way of peaceful change, but not if there are no peace officers. All of this is so old, so very old: the last time it was tried amid the pressures, the impossible demands, the coalitions and the riots — Czechoslovakia could stand it no more and it fell to communism in 1948.

WASHINGTON — The proud poor Smithsonian Institution recently sent its director, C. Dillon Ripley, on a pleasure cruise through the sunny Aegean in a 110-foot luxury yacht. Officially, his mission was to look for the Audouin's Gull.

For two weeks, he sailed the epic, wine-dark sea around the isles of Greece aboard the good ship Pacific Gold which rents for $480 a day. He quaffed fine drink, lolled on beaches, and at the锚点 of the luxury Falcon. There was no mention, however, of lobsters, cocktails, parties at the Athens Royal Yacht Club, or dropping by the Onassis.

Footnote: An irreverent former Smithsonian colleague cracked that next Ripley would be taking his family "on a ski trip to Aspen, Colorado, to hunt the Abominable Snowman."

Officials reluctantly conceded to this column that the Kremlin may bring pressure upon the U.S. to discontinue military bases in Turkey. White House statements about the Soviet agreement not to construct bases in Cuba have embarrassed Soviet leaders. To save face, Beam has warned, they can be expected to demand a reciprocal agreement on American bases in Turkey... Soviet diplomats have made quiet backstage appeals to Israeli diplomats in several countries to urge Israel to return to the bargaining table. The Soviets have hinted that a Middle East settlement acceptable to Israel, can be worked out through UN mediator Gunnar Jarring.

Assistant Secretary of State Charles Meyer, just back from attending President Salvador Allende's inauguration in Chile, has reported on his private talks with the Marxist leader. Meyer quoted Allende as saying he hopes the U.S. will continue its foreign aid to Chile, but he won't let this assistance influence his policies. Allende declared bluntly that the U.S. will have to accept his plans to introduce Marxism to Chile... George Habash, the militant Palestinian guerrilla leader, is in trouble with his troops for ducking out on the September fighting in Jordan.

The matter, therefore, was never resolved and to this day Bird Thompson and Izzie McCarthy are still at the same time he was searching for the elusive Audouin's Gull.

Bird was then a fifth-grader. The schoolyard was in an uproar. Because nothing like that had ever happened before, there was no rule to cover it. Not even Horace could decide.

The playing field had been carefully laid out before school that morning. A piece of gold chalk, borrowed from Miss Sheas fifth grade chalk box, outlined the five-foot circular playing area. It smashed into Izzie's yellow with such force that both marbles split in two. Two pieces of each marble fell dead in place, but the other two pieces skittered into the tar with a stick.

"I win," cried Bird. "You do not," retorted Izzie. The schoolyard was in an uproar. Because nothing like that had ever happened before, there was no rule to cover it. Not even Horace could decide.

Where Missouri gets its serious impact on the lives of federal revenue money from, for the voters than the failure of the tax boost and a $6 billion spending cut this isn't likely to change too much in the near future.

This is good basic economics to remember when office seekers promise something for nothing at taxpayer expense at election time. Higher wages and higher prices won't help the working man or business keep up with inflationary dollars whose value is slipping away like a snowball in the summer sun.

OUT WITH THE 'IN' GLASSES

Not only is bad taste "in" in the world of mod fashions; in at least one respect good sense is "out." Those big, three-inch-round sunglasses that have become so popular among the younger set came up for discussion at the recent annual meeting of the American Optometric Association in Philadelphia.

Optometrists reported that the psychedelic tinting of the glasses, which ranges from pale lavender to dark blue, doesn't protect the eyes from the sun and that pieces of glass so large as optical defects.

Some of the lenses magnify, while others do just the opposite. Wearing them is like looking through the wrong end of a telescope. Others distort vision in other ways. Some of the tints, moreover, make it difficult to tell what color is showing on traffic lights. It could mean a bad "trip," especially if the trip is

Mother, 94, kept alive but mind dead

Dear Ann Landers: Our mother is 94 years old and has been in a private nursing home for seven years. Mother does not know where she is nor has she recognized any member of the family for six years. My two brothers and I share the cost and it has kept us broke.

Three weeks ago the hospital called to say mother had fallen out of bed, broken her hip and was going into pneumonia. When we arrived at her bedside, we found her in an oxygen tent, tubes all over the place and receiving intravenous feedings and getting poked with needles every three hours.

Four days later the doctor triumphantly announced that mother had passed the crisis and he was putting her in "therapy." Why can't people be permitted to die in dignity? Why must doctors keep a 94-year-old woman alive with mechanical devices when her mind has been gone for years and the maintenance of her ravished body is a financial and emotional burden to the family? What can be done about this incredible lunacy and ultimate indignity?—A Daughter

Dear Daughter: The doctor has an obligation to sustain life as long as possible. If, however, there is no hope and the family says, "Please leave her in God's hands, and forego extraordinary measures," the doctor will follow the family's wishes. My advice reflects the thinking of many distinguished physicians and theologians, including Dr. Irving Page, editor of Modern Medicine, and Pope Pius XII.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband lived at home and helped his parents financially until the day we married. They always resented me.

Whenever my mother-in-law visits (about twice a year) she strokes my husband's face and calls him "my little boy." He is over 30 years old and six feet tall. She makes him uncomfortable when she does this and it burns me up. I've told him how I feel but my husband refuses to say anything because he doesn't want to hurt her feelings. I wish his mother would keep her hands to herself. Do you agree that she is out of line? —J.B.

Dear J.B. I cannot see that your mother-in-law is hurting you or your marriage by stroking your husband's face and calling him her little boy. No matter how old (or tall) children get, a mother always sees them as children. You don't say whether or not you have a son. My guess is that you do not.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for all the mothers who are concerned about buying baby food in jars which might have been opened by "food tasters."

Baby foods are packed in jars with safety device that automatically tell whether or not the seal has been broken. They are called "tamper-proof lids." The consumer can protect herself by selecting jars with lids having depressed centers. A raised lid indicates that the vacuum has been broken. When the consumer opens the jar she should listen for a popping sound. If she doesn't hear it the jar should be returned to the grocer. —M.L.D. Ex. V.P. National Canner's Assn.

Dear M.L.D.: In behalf of every mother who expressed concern, (and hundreds did) I thank you.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann

Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this self-addressed, stamped envelope comprehensive guide, write to and 35 cents in coin.

Gamble's Pay Off For Dexter Cats

DEXTER — A couple of Saturday afternoon gamble's paid big dividends for the Daily Standard's "Coach of the Year", Clyde Vaughn, and his Dexter high school Bearcat football team before 3,300 witnesses.

The big Red and White clad Bearcat squad battled their way to the finals of the Missouri State High School Activities Association 3-A state football playoffs with a 29-26 decision over Lutheran South of St. Louis and will collide with Chillicothe in the title game Saturday at Missouri Valley College in Marshall, Mo.

Gambles, such as electing to kickoff instead of receiving to open the game and going for a first down on fourth and three to go, paid off for the state finals bound DHS squad.

The first gamble paid off with 15 points as coach Vaughn's Bearcats took the wind, which was breezing out of the South East with about 20 MPH gusts, and recorded two touchdowns and three extra points in the first period with the help of the wind which held up numerous punts and pass attempts by Lutheran.

DHS's gamble came in the fourth period when Terry Gibson was called on to pick up three yards on a fourth down. The speedy, hard-driving back broke up the middle for a five-yard gain and a first down, which the Cats used to run the clock out.

"We weren't going to kick it (the ball) against the wind," coach Vaughn happily noted "and we figured Terry could get the yards for us."

That fourth period gamble thwarted a second Half Lutheran rally that totaled 20 points and moved the Cats record to 10-1 while dropping the Lancers to 5-5 on the season.

Dexter seemed headed for a rout after breezing to a 21-6 first half lead, but after the Lancers halftime pow-wow with coach

Blanda Strikes Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Racing the clock has become a weekly ordeal for the Oakland Raiders, but their 43-year-old anchor man is having the time of his life.

George Blanda, oldest player in the National Football League, kicked a 16-yard field goal with seven seconds to play Sunday, giving the Raiders a 20-17 victory over San Diego that extended their unbeaten string to seven games.

In the last five weeks, Blanda has provided the heroics—three 46 times with clutch field goals inside the final 10 seconds and twice with touchdown passes in relief of regular quarterback Daryle Lamontana.

Lamontana, who went the distance against the Chargers, failed to throw a scoring pass for the first time in 26 games. But Blanda's second fourthquarter field goal gave the American Football Conference's Western 16 where it was faced with a fourth-and-one situation. DHS quarterback Dave Mathis sneaked for the first down, but fumbled and the Lancers had the ball at its own 11 and stopped the Cats from padding its lead. But the Lutheran South offense fumbled three successive series, one two many as the DHS squad pushed Gibson across with 3:23 left and he added the two point conversion for a 29-18 advantage.

The first time, the Bearcats took over on the Lancers' 14 but couldn't score and failed to go across the second time after taking over at the eight, but punched over the third time.

Lutheran battled back and covered 61 yards in six plays, with Ben Cox running the final eleven yards, and added its first conversion of the day when Don Pace passed to Rich Komorech for the final 29-26 score. Dexter controlled the ball the final 1-minute and 47 seconds to record the victory and set the stage for Saturday's encounter with Chillicothe, a 29-12 winner over Warrensburg.

St. Louis Jim Bakken kicked a tying 14-yard field goal with 1:49 showing on the clock at Kansas City and the knot held when Jan Stenerud of the Chiefs was a couple of feet short on a 55-yard attempt with 30 seconds to play.

Stenerud and Bakken did all the scoring with field goals in the first regular-season meeting of Missouri's pro powerhouses. The tie left the Cardinals one game ahead of the second-place Giants in the National Football Conference East.

Bob Gries passed for two scores and ran 15 yards for another as Miami avenged an earlier 35-0 loss at Baltimore and climbed within 1½ games of the first place Colts in the AFC's Eastern race.

The Vikings nailed their seventh straight victory, and atoned for their lone setback of the season, by outmuscling Green Bay on a one-yard scoring plunge by Clint Jones in the third quarter set up by Gary Cuozzo's 37-yard pass to Gene Washington.

Detroit snapped San Francisco's four-game winning string as Greg Landry fired three touchdown passes and the Lions picked off three John Brodie tosses. The Lions, however, remained three games behind Minnesota in the NFC Central Division with just four games to play.

The Rams' defense struck for play.

SPECIAL SESSION CONSIDERS 5 STATE TAX ALTERNATIVES

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Five proposed tax alternatives to meet Missouri's emergency needs, particularly in welfare, are receiving attention this week during the fourth special session of the 75th General Assembly.

None of the House or Senate bills already submitted have overwhelming support, although some appear to have better chances for approval than others.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' recommended income tax hike, introduced in a bill by Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt (D-St. Louis), has aroused the most controversy.

The measure is similar to one approved by the Legislature in 1969 and defeated decisively in the April 7 statewide referendum. It boosts their tax rate from the present 1-4 percent scale to a 2-6 per cent scale.

The governor evidently believes, or at least hopes, the schools crisis across the state and problems in other agencies, notably welfare and mental health, have changed public sentiment on the income tax.

He realizes many legislators would be reluctant to approve the tax so soon after the public rejected it, unless an opinion change is evident.

The most outspoken opponent of the income tax, Sen. Earl R. Blackwell (D-Hillsboro), has threatened to lead another referendum campaign if the measure passes in the special session.

Blackwell was the key figure in the earlier defeat of the tax. "I don't detect that the people have changed their minds one bit since last April," he said.

Several legislators have indicated they favor the income tax. Rep. Buddy Kay (D-St. Louis), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee which reviews all tax bills, says he prefers it over the sales tax.

Sen. Richard M. Webster (R-Carthage) was pleased that reform provisions of the tax were eliminated, although he said he would "withhold final judgement" until other revenue sources are ruled out by the Legislature.

Identical House and Senate bills to double taxes on beer, wine and liquor have the broadest support, according to most sources. In fact, no legislator is yet known to oppose the increases.

Two versions of corporate income tax boost from two to five percent may also have good chances for passage. It is questionable whether either can muster the two-thirds vote necessary to become effective Jan. 1, however.

A bill to apply the sales tax to all forms of media advertising has been introduced by a group of St. Louis and Kansas City legislators critical of the press. The measure would also bring rentals and leases of firms, records and tapes under the sales tax.

All money generated by the tax would go to state schools. The bill is similar to measures introduced during regular sessions for several years without success. It appears to have no better chance of passage this time.

Rep. Stephen Burns (R-Des Peres) has introduced a bill to levy a 3 per cent tax on sales of gas, electricity, water and certain energy fuels. The bill has received little attention and its fate is uncertain.

Just as uncertain is whether the special session will accomplish what the governor intended when he called it. Hearnes warned in his opening message Nov. 13 that putting emergency problems off until January's regular session would be a "great blow" to those on welfare and in the schools.

"The long dispute over Missouri's financial crisis could be settled once and for all if the state were allowed to run out of money, but it would be irresponsible to place the settling of a political dispute above the best interests of the state," the governor said.

The critical question is whether the Legislature will conclude, as Hearnes suggests, that the income tax is the "fairest" and best revenue producer available.

Many legislators will probably follow the lead of Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, who said, "I'm more interested in the public's reaction than anything else."

Bill Sponsors'
Absence Holds
Up Hearing

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — None of the sponsors showed up Thursday so the House Ways and Means Committee had to postpone until Monday night a hearing on a bill to levy a 3 per cent tax on the sale of newsprint, advertising and mining equipment and on the lease of motion pictures or recordings.

The principal sponsor is Rep. J.D. (Jet) Banks, D-St. Louis.

The committee chairman, Rep. Buddy Ray, D-St. Louis, said Banks did not notify him tax the sale of electricity, water, fuel used to generate steam or power.

Over 30 opponents appeared and one, advertising man Larry Halenkamp of St. Louis, said: "I voiced in the administration's revenue proposals—a flat rate increase in income taxes and tax the sponsor didn't show up."

Also held over was a bill to boost on liquor, beer and wine.

Robert Kingsland of Jefferson City, an attorney for the liquor and wine interests, said it might be more costly to double taxes on those spirits than the revenue would bring in. Many sales near Missouri's borders are made because liquor taxes are higher in adjoining states.

Earlier, little opposition was seen to the bill.

School Aid Hampered By Fund Channel

BUT WHAT IF YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS TO COUNT?

Impossible. And if you look inside yourself, you'll find them.

You have the breath of God in your lungs. You have the God-given ability to hope. You have God's love.

And you have yet another gift from Him.

The ability to help others. To open your heart and your hand and your mind to someone else.

If everyone exercises this wonderful gift, imagine how much more we will have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving, 1971.

JEFFERSON CITY — Distribution of state financial aid to school districts is hampered by channeling it through a special state fund, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said in a report released today. The report recommended that the fund, the State School Moneys Fund, be abolished by the legislature. It is one of the state government's largest special funds.

The report directed its recommendation to the regular legislative session, which convenes early next year, rather than to the current special session. State aid to school districts should be distributed directly from the General Revenue Fund, the report said.

Emergency legislation required last spring to permit the state to finance its commitment for aid to public schools would have been unnecessary had the School Moneys Fund been combined with the General Revenue Fund, the report said.

The emergency occurred because insufficient receipts had been accumulated in the School Moneys Fund for the March school distribution, the final one of the year permitted by law. The state had the money on hand in the General Revenue Fund with which to meet its commitment, but inflexibility caused by the separate funds prohibited its use for school aid, the Survey said.

The School Moneys Fund's source of receipts is money transferred to it from the General Revenue Fund plus receipts from the cigarette tax. The report said it would be less cumbersome to permit cigarette taxes to go to the General Revenue Fund and to distribute school aid directly from that fund.

The report said that the need for a separate School Moneys Fund was eliminated some years ago when the state adopted a policy of determining the amount of state school aid by a statutory formula, the Foundation School Program. Now the legislature allows the amount needed to fulfill the formula in whole or in part. Prior to adoption of that policy, the state had distributed a fractional part of general revenue, such as a third or three-eighths, to school districts, and the School Moneys Fund had served as a repository for accumulating that portion of general receipts.

The School Moneys Fund is one of 70 separate special funds used by the state government, the report said. It recommended the state government review them all with an eye toward eliminating those not needed. It said that holds potential for streamlining fiscal operations with financial benefit to the state government.

Six years ago a study showed the state government conducting its fiscal operations through 115 separate state funds, the report said. Legislation has been enacted abolishing 45 of the special funds described in that study, the report said, combining them with the General Revenue Fund. Along with simplifying finances, the report said, this made available $10 million on a one-time basis and $5 million on an annual basis for financing state services. These moneys had been immobilized in special funds.

As adjunct to eliminating the special funds, the report recalled, the state's taxpayers were relieved of paying an annual tax of 1 cent per $100 valuation on property. It was being levied on property for interests on an indebtedness that had been retired.

The Survey is a non-profit governmental research organization supported by Missouri citizens and businesses.

Four Injured

Four were injured in three automobile accidents Saturday afternoon, the highway patrol reported.

At 1:30 p.m. on highway 114, one mile west of Morehouse, a 1970 Chevrolet pickup truck traveling south, driven by Cleo Maurice Deeson, 22, East Prairie, did not yield the right-of-way at a through highway pulled off an eastbound 1968 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Edward Stinnett, 20, Morehouse, which struck the Deeson vehicle and then turned over, the patrol said.

Stinnett and a passenger in the Stinnett vehicle, Charles L. Bradshaw, 63, Morehouse, both suffered head cuts.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital for treatment.

Deeson was arrested on a charge of failure to yield the right of way.

At 4:10 p.m. on highway 61, one mile east of Gray Ridge, a 1957 Ford truck going west, driven by Lawton Dale James, 49, Essex, slowed and was struck in the rear by a westbound 1967 Buick driven by Barbara Cole, 16, Sikeston, the patrol said.

A passenger in the Buick, Sharon Helmes, 14, Sikeston, suffered a possible fractured chin, cuts, and bruises. She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston. On route Y five miles southwest of Bell City at 5:30 p.m., a 1964 Chevrolet, traveling west, driven by Orval Coleman, 52, Poplar Bluff, swerved to miss a pedestrian who was walking west on the north side of route Y, the

POPLAR BLUFF — Wayne C. Brooks, a Missouri highway patrol officer for the past 24 years and a native of Alton, has years in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was assigned to Troop E with headquarters in Poplar Bluff in 1945 as safety officer for Troop E and was promoted to sergeant in January 1947.

Brooks' promotion from lieutenant to captain will be effective Dec. 1, at which time he will succeed Capt. E. F. Dampf, whose retirement is effective the same day.

Promoted to the post of lieutenant at Troop E will be George Lewis Montgomery, Patrol safety officer for the Southeast Missouri troop.

Brooks was appointed to the patrol on July 1, 1946, and assigned to Kennett. He was promoted to sergeant in December of 1961.

Brooks was assigned to the Jefferson City Troop F headquarters in November of 1967 and promoted to lieutenant. He then was assigned to Poplar Bluff a year ago. His badge number, previously "39," now will be "20."

Montgomery, who was born at Clubb in Wayne County on Aug. 11, 1911, was appointed to the Highway Patrol on Dec. 2, 1941. He previously had been a merchant and schoolteacher.

This represents another record year for Christmas Club savings and memberships, according to Christmas Club a Corporation, the organization that originated the savings plan in 1910.

More than 10,000 banks and savings institutions will issue checks to members during this month when the Christmas buying season starts.

Christmas Club surveys show that although many people join just for Christmas cash, nearly $700,000,000 from 1970 clubs will go right back into savings at the institutions where the clubs were joined and the remainder spent on Christmas presents and such expenses as taxes, insurance, tuition and vacation.

The record highs in membership and dollars saved indicate a strong plan ahead attitude on the part of many Americans to assure a Happy Holiday season.

Kiss May Be Assault But Not Negligence

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alice and Bill were platonic friends. But, to Bill, being platonic friends with a girl as attractive as was Alice was like being invited down to the wine cellar for a glass of ginger ale.

Consequently, when she came to visit his apartment, one morning, and was sitting on the floor sorting out phonograph records, he suddenly grabbed her around the waist and attempted to kiss her.

Alice, in turn, attempted to free herself from his vise-like grip. Unfortunately, in the struggle, Alice struck her head on a coffee table and charging negligence she sued him for the injury that ensued.

"It was pure negligence the way he mishandled me," complained Alice in court. "He grabbed me like he was a bull in a China Shop. Women are fragile."

Nonsense," was Bill's answer. "I intended to kiss her and I did kiss her. That's not being negligent; that's being manly. And, it's manliness that women like."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit fragile Alice to collect for her injuries due to Bill's alleged negligence?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Bill's conduct constituted an assault and battery and not negligence; that assault and battery is an intentional act while negligence connotes an unintentional act. And, in this case, concluded the judge, Bill's efforts to kiss Alice was purely intentional.

Brod Crawford
Bright Spot in
Dull TV Season

Jury Rules Homicide, Suicide

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the better things of the otherwise lackluster new television season is the sight of the old pro Broderick Crawford acting as den father to a flock of young doctors on "The Interns."

The face resembles that of a boxer who stayed in the ring for one bout too many. But there's nothing wrong with Crawford's rapid-fire delivery—or his footwork.

"I get a kick out of these young actors trying some tricks," he smiles.

What kind of tricks?

"Oh, nothing as obvious as that. I mean like turning ever so slightly so I would have to move out of my light to follow them. Haw! They should know that I've learned all the tricks they'll ever learn, and a few extras as well."

"Once I tried that lighting bit with Charlie Ruggles. 'Young man, just where are you leading me?' he said. Believe me, I never tried that again."

Crawford is the solid read at the inquest which foundation on which the CBS

Friday night series is connection with an autopsy constructed—"I'm the father performed on Kremer, confessor," he comments. The show is being filmed in familiar surroundings for him —

Miss Holtzclaw was from rural Ware, Ill., just across the Mississippi River from Cape

Girardeau. She was employed at the apartment complex.

Crawford will be 60 next year. After a stage career—

"Of Mice and Men", 65 feature films and a long-running television series, "Highway Patrol," he remains as electric as ever. The schedule for "The Interns" is rigorous, but no more so than

"Highway Patrol," which he Giftos.

The deaths occurred Oct. 29.

Two witnesses told the coroner's panel, headed by Sheriff Ivan McLain, they saw Kremer near the apartment building where

Marilyn Holtzclaw, 25, was killed. She had been shot four times by a shotgun.

Kremer, 38, died a short time later when his auto collided with a bridge pillar of Interstate 55 on the north side of town. The shotgun was not found but two persons told authorities they saw an auto similar to Kremer's near this northeast Scott county town.

The crowning success of this venture will be observed Tuesday at an open house and a turkey shooting match.

Thieves Fail To Open Safe

VANDUSER — Thieves failed in a crude safe job Saturday morning at Don Black's store.

Sheriff John Dennis of Scott County said the culprits worked on a safe inside the store for two hours, but failed to enter. There was $3 in the safe.

A front door lock was removed to enter the building. No merchandise was reported missing.

In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you. (I Thessalonians 5:18)

PRAYER: Gracious Father, make me ever grateful for the skills of my fellowmen. May I never take them for granted. Help me to see these persons as Thy helpers in building a better world. Amen.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible
The fruit of the Spirit is... gentleness.—(Gal. 5:22).

When we give ourselves to being more loving, more thoughtful, more aware of the needs of others, we find more meaning in life. We then experience inner peace and satisfaction. Gentleness, understanding and patience are the signs of emotional maturity, and the way of supreme spiritual strength.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Nov. 23, the 327th day of 1970. There are 38 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1943, the Pacific war battle of Tarawa ended in an American victory as U.S. Marines seized the island from the Japanese.

On this date:
In 1765, the British Stamp Act was first repudiated—by the court of Frederick County, Md.

In 1774, the Minutemen were organized by an act of the Colonial Provincial Congress.

In 1863, the Civil War battle of Lookout Mountain began in Tennessee.

In 1921, President Warren G. Harding signed a bill outlawing beer.

In 1963, the body of President John F. Kennedy, assassinated in Dallas, Tex., lay in state at the White House.

Ten years ago—the second U.S. weather-eye satellite, Tiros II, was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Five years ago—at least 12 persons were dead in flash floods in southern California.

One year ago—the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence warned that American cities were on their way to becoming "hotbeds" and "places of terror."

Because she said spaghetti is her favorite dish, the National Macaroni Institute named Mrs. Richard Nixon "Macaroni Woman of the Year."
